Clark co-founded Cross Country Healthcare in 1986 and rejoined the Company in January 2019 after leaving in 1994 and launching other successful companies. Over the past three years, he has led the Company's turnaround and return to profitable growth, more than doubling the Company's revenue on an organic basis and consummating two acquisitions. Recently, it was announced that Clark would transition to Chairman of the Board of Directors, where he will continue to be involved in the evolution of Cross Country and provide strategic direction.

"I'm honored to be recognized by SIA for our achievements during the most challenging time in our industry," says Kevin C. Clark, CEO of Cross Country Healthcare. "The impact of the Cross Country team on the future of our nation's health and education is unmatched. I am proud of the unwavering commitment to our customers, clinicians, and professionals that I see every day."

Staffing Industry Analysts (SIA), the global advisor on staffing and workforce solutions, has published its 11th annual list of North American staffing leaders, honoring 100 notable individuals who are elevating the industry and advancing the workforce solutions ecosystem through their accomplishments. The 2022 Staffing 100 list is sponsored by Indeed.

"The world of work has undergone a dramatic shift, and the task of keeping the workforce motivated and productive has rested with many of the enterprising leaders on the Staffing 100 list," said Subadhra Sriram, Editor & Publisher, Media Products, SIA. "Working relentlessly to move their companies and the workforce solutions ecosystem forward, these intrepid professionals have done what it takes to ensure the workforce solutions ecosystem continues to thrive."
